PARTNERSHIP BETWEEN OUTREMER TELECOM AND CANAL OVERSEAS

Paris, 26 February 2009: The Outremer Telecom Group (FR0010425587 - OMT), the leading alternative operator in the Overseas Departments and Regions, has announced the signing of a partnership with CANAL OVERSEAS, a subsidiary of the CANAL+ Group, in charge of development in overseas territories and internationally.

In the coming months, this partnership aims to offer the broadband customers of Outremer Telecom who qualify for ADSL television the possibility of subscribing to CANAL+ and/or CANALSAT channels in the West Indies, Guyana and on the Island of La Reunion. As for subscribers/customers of CANAL+ and/or CANALSAT in the West Indies, Guyana and La Reunion, they will be able to take up an offer of broadband telephone and internet whose quality service matches that to which they are accustomed.

Jean-Noël Tronc, Chairman and CEO of CANAL OVERSEAS has declared that: "We are delighted to be working with the Outremer Telecom group. This partnership will add value to our current range of paying television and re-affirms our desire to offer innovative services to our customers."

Jean-Michel Hégésippe, the General Director of Outremer Telecom has concluded that: "The signing of this partnership which links the quality of our infrastructure and services to a strong brand like CANAL is excellent news which should help us attract new customers and increase our number of subscribers. We are looking forward to working together and are certain of the strategic relevance of this partnership for both our groups."

About OUTREMER TELECOM

Integrated operator in the Overseas Regions. Founded in 1986, the Outremer Telecom group is the first alternative telecommunications provider able to offer integrated landline and mobile telephone systems as well as Internet for households and business customers in the Overseas regions (Martinique, Guadeloupe, Guyana, La Reunion and Mayotte).

The Outremer Telecom group intends to strengthen its position as first alternative provider in Overseas regions and continue to increase the number of Internet and mobile subscribers. Thanks to a large potential market and by building on the success of its range in Guyana and the West Indies, the group expanded its mobile services at the end on 2006, followed by its landline telephone and Internet services in Mayotte in February 2007 and its mobile services on La Reunion in April 2007. The group also intends to develop the convergence of its various services, its business customers and offer innovative services thanks to the progressive character of its network.

To date, the Outremer Telecom group unbundles over 75% of lines from the former public providers in these areas and has developed its own telecommunications network which allows it to benefit from a position as a strong and innovative challenger on a growing market
